

5.0 RESPONSES TO INDIVIDUAL COMMENTS

5.1 INTRODUCTION

In accordance with requirements of the CEQA, the City of Azusa as the CEQA Lead Agency, evaluated all comments received on the Draft EIR, and prepared written responses. These responses have been prepared in the light of Section 15204(a) of the CEQA Guidelines, which provides as follows:

In reviewing draft EIRs, persons and public agencies should focus on the sufficiency of the document in identifying and analyzing the possible impacts on the environment and ways in which the significant effects of the project might be avoided or mitigated. Comments are most helpful when they suggest additional specific alternatives or mitigation measures that would provide better ways to avoid or mitigate the significant environmental effects. At the same time, reviewers should be aware that the adequacy of an EIR is determined in terms of what is reasonably feasible, in light of factors such as the magnitude of the project at issue, the severity of its likely environmental impacts, and the geographic scope of the project. CEQA does not require a lead agency to conduct every test or perform all research, study, and experimentation recommended or demanded by commenters. When responding to comments, lead agencies need only respond to significant environmental issues and do not need to provide all information requested by reviewers, as long as a good faith effort at full disclosure is made in the EIR.

Additionally, in preparing responses to comments, the City was mindful of Section 15204(c), which provides that comments should be accompanied by factual support:

Reviewers should explain the basis for their comments, and, should submit data or references offering facts, reasonable assumptions based on facts, or expert opinion supported by facts in support of the comments. Pursuant to Section 15064, an effect shall not be considered significant in the absence of substantial evidence.

Accordingly, responses to all comments that relate to significant environmental issues associated with the Proposed Project have been provided, and any opposing views on the issues raised have been discussed, in a good faith effort at full disclosure. Other comments, including comments that do not relate to significant environmental issues, comments that are not based on facts, reasonable assumptions based on facts, or expert opinion supported by facts, and comments that merely express the commenters' personal opinions or preferences regarding the Proposed Project, have been noted.

5.2 COMMENTS RECEIVED ON THE DRAFT EIR

The City received a total of 653 individual pieces of correspondence commenting on the Draft EIR. The comments took the form of individual letters, electronic mail messages (emails), and form letters, memos, or postcards. The individual comment letters and emails are listed and numbered in Table 5-1.

An annotated copy of each comment letter and email follows. All comment letters received on the Draft EIR are reproduced in their original form. Each individual piece of correspondence has been assigned a corresponding number, and specified comments within each letter, memo, or email are also numbered. For example, comment letter "A1" is from the Native American Heritage Commission. The comments within this letter are numbered "A1-1," "A1-2," "A-3," and so on. A response is prepared for each numbered comment and follows the piece of correspondence.

When comments have resulted in changes to the text of the Draft EIR, additional text is underlined and deleted text is shown by ~~strikeout~~. Referenced revisions appear in Section 3.0 Draft EIR Errata of the Final EIR.

5.3 NON-EIR ISSUES

Many commenters voiced opposition to the Proposed Project. Often these comments were combined with general statements about environmental concerns (e.g., air quality, traffic, noise, and aesthetics), usually without reference to the studies completed in the Draft EIR.

The Guidelines for Implementation of CEQA, specify the nature in which comments should be addressed regarding a Draft EIR:

- In reviewing Draft EIR's, persons and public agencies should focus on the sufficiency of the document in identifying and analyzing the possible impacts on the environment and ways in which the significant effects of the project might be avoided or mitigated. Comments are most helpful when they suggest additional specific alternatives or mitigation measures that would provide better ways to avoid or mitigate the significant environmental effects. At the same time, reviewers should be aware that the adequacy of an EIR is determined in terms of what is reasonably feasible, in light of factors such as the magnitude of the project at issue, the severity of its likely environmental impacts, and the geographic scope of the project. CEQA does not require a lead agency to conduct every test or perform all research, study, and experimentation recommended or demanded by commentors. When responding to comments, lead agencies need only respond to significant environmental issues and do not need to provide all information requested by reviewers, as long as a good faith effort at full disclosure is made in the EIR.

CEQA Guidelines Section 15204(a)

- Reviewers should explain the basis for their comments, and should submit data or references offering facts, reasonable assumptions based on facts, or expert opinion supported by facts in support of the comments. Pursuant to Section 15064, an effect shall not be considered significant in the absence of substantial evidence.

CEQA Guidelines Section 15204(c)

Nevertheless, the Guidelines state that these limitations should “...not be used to restrict the ability of reviewers to comment on the general adequacy of a document or of the lead agency to reject comments not focused as recommended...”

This Final EIR embraces a good-faith effort to address each comment pertaining to the analysis of impacts from the Proposed Project. However, other comments reviewed were more closely related to the commenter’s opinion of how a vote on the approval or denial should be cast, how the Proposed Project could affect the commenter’s ‘quality of life’, concerns over property value decrease, and/or demands for compensation as a result of perceived lower quality of life or property value. These comments were considered general and non-specific to the Draft EIR; therefore their contents is not considered consistent with the purpose and intent of the EIR review. However, the commenter was directed to the relevant General Responses that covered the topic of concern as addressed in the Draft EIR.

5.4 Approval/Denial, Need, and Consideration of the Project

Consideration of the need for a project is not generally within the scope of an EIR, as the EIR’s role is to present an impartial evaluation of the physical environmental effects of a project, should it be implemented. CEQA’s requirement to consider project objectives is such that a reasonable range of alternatives can be determined and evaluated. In considering approval of a project, decision-makers do weigh factors such as need, economic benefits to the community (taxes, jobs, expenditures for local goods and services, and secondary economic benefits), appropriateness at this time, in addition to the other factors and environmental consequences examined in the EIR.

As a public agency with authority over land use within its jurisdiction, the City is responsible for managing certain land use activities, planning for future land uses, and exercising its discretionary authority over development proposals. The City has an obligation to review and consider any proposal for land development that is submitted in conformance with established procedures.

For the Vulcan Materials Azusa Rock Quarry, the Applicant submitted Use Permit and Reclamation Plan applications for review in conformance with City requirements. An initial step by the City Planning Department is completion of an environmental review. Another important consideration at this stage is the proposal’s consistency with plans, policies, and regulations; a discussion of such consistency, as well as an evaluation of compatibility with existing land uses, is included in the Draft EIR. Comments submitted on the Draft EIR that offer opinions on support or denial of the application are hereby referred to the decision-makers for consideration in their deliberations.
